Should Art be Outlawed? & 1 Reasons Why Art is Bad

For too long have hard working Americans been at the beck and call of our great Art-ists. It is time for the citizens of this country to take back control of the art industry that made this country interesting for so long. I recommend immediately banning the act of expression completely and liquidating the currently popular yet exclusionary, independent “art-house” movement. These radical enter-terrorists should be replaced by a handful of successful market leaders who will be tasked with operating a committee that uses federal funding to effectively regulate every piece of media created within the walls of the United States of America. Imagine everything you consume is now catered just for you! Everything you watch on TV is for betterment of society and profit of American businesses and international interests, the way it should be. You’ll never have to wait for another episode, and the ending never lets you down! -Editor and FCC Chairman

Orville Peck’s Exclusive “Coming Out” Interview So you’re NOT gay?

No so it kind of started as a gimmick I guess, but not on purpose or anything. I mean I showed my wiener to my cousin once but other than that I just really like rhinestones man, I’m a rhinestone cowboy. I ain’t gay though or anything like that you know. I just kinda ran with it. I ain’t got any problems with the queers.

Jesus christ. So seeming that blatantly gay was unintentional? Like with the current state of affairs the way they are, being a country musician in the LGBTQ community could have been highly controversial and divisive depending on your customer demographic so-

Ya like I said, I got carried away buddy. Literally. By the time I got signed by P-Diddy- well you know, P-Diddy really is like super scary gay and he kinda broke me in if you know what I mean. Boy there was no goin back after that. I was on tours gettin turned out by all these big- er famous rap stars: Jay-Z, Kanye, Nas. I was even hookin up with Pete Davidson for a while, that was actually pretty nice. He’s a nice fella.

He does seem nice, my mom loves him. Being the only gay country musician seems like a genius marketing strategy.

Well it was. And I didn’t even mean to, I thought ya’ll liked my music but, once I came out as straight they were sayin they were gonna charge me for inciting the CMT riots and I had to flee the country.

Nobody believes I’m straight! So I been playin the cantina circuit ever since. I got all my tattoos covered up with tribal marks and naked babes. Bein in Mexico has really helped me realize how gay I was acting and I’m starting to build a pretty masculine fanbase in Matamoros, Mexico. My new manager Jorge said he’s gonna get me making really good money, all I have to do is play these private quinces in San Diego once or twice a month, I even got my own tunnel so no more riots’ll pop off.

Wow, that’s still super gay.

Y’know the weirdest part is that I never really said I was gay, I just never said I wasn’t. I’ve always dressed like this, I didn’t know I was giving off that vibe until Shaq pointed it out.

Alright man, I think I’m gonna head out, good luck with everything. Call us if you change your mind about being gay. We were hoping you’d be gay.

Key campaign promises

Forced birth:

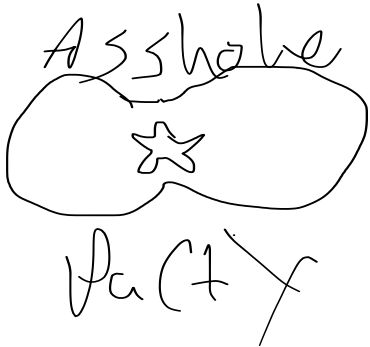

Government pairs couples by astrological sign (mandatory)
Toilet paper: is frowned upon and will rapidly disappear from stores, this will take a coordinated effort through public broadcasts and extremely expensive social media influencer campaigns. This is a stipulation required by our gracious campaign financiers at the colon cancer research center and cannot be negotiated.
Church is mandatory but churches are not legally allowed to recognize any specific theology. They preach a general message of shame and fear.
Forced abortion: to continue having a safe pregnancy even after birth women will be required to raise children that are able to pass the standardized AmazonWarehouse knowledge check. Students with failing grades are aborted up to 12 years “post-womb” (people will hate this law but they will be convinced by the media that it is necessary)

Men must submit random semen samples on command to test for usability(this may become inconvenient but all sperm is used for procreation with or without consent or knowledge of the male). Men with low sperm counts should be considered bioterorists and have to pay higher tithings to offset their environmental impact. They are also generally frowned upon. (this law is reversed for gay men, in a fucked up and homophobic way)
No courts you are still tried by a jury of your peers but they will have pitch forks and ar-15s.

No taxes. Church tithings should be mandatory and based on your income. The lower your income is the higher percentage of tithings you pay because you need the blessing more you poor piece of shit and this isn’t a communist country if you want something you gotta pay for it, asshole.

Respecting sovereign citizens and fellow travelers. However, police officers and government employees are also granted sovereignty as well as government issued arms and ammunition. (this is a very loose law, so good luck)
Anti-racist and Colorblindness. Everyone is treated equally (calls for equity will be met with confusion or diverted), so punishing a white owned company for not doing business with minorities would also be considered racial discrimination as being racist is an important part of Jewish and Anglo culture.

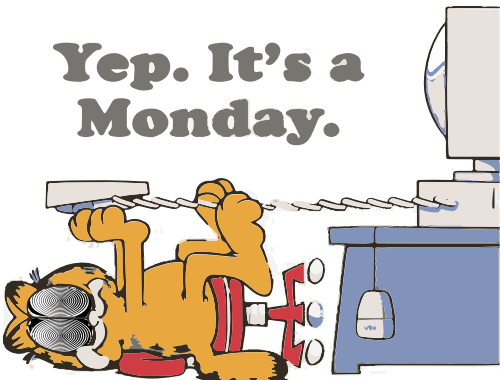

Free American Art Std. (free to see for a small fee)

Did they nationalize art? Why is this art gallery full of shitty Disney posters. Why don’t they just make art illegal? Creativity may as well be treasonous activity. They should put it to a vote, let us make big business run every channel on TV. & every locally owned magazine In what misery they’d be, that would be the bees knees. We the people, want Sprite spiked Mountain Dew, and Pepsi flavored Coca Cola and we want the packaging to represent our hyper-time-sensitive state of mind. AT ALL TIMES.

The Bitches Pitches

We are purpsofully deprived of meaningful entertainment for the sake of profit. These shows would be good though. 1. basically Tye Pennington takes sex offenders and instead of remodeling the house he builds them a shitty tiny home way out in the middle of nowhere like as far away from society as possible but still close enough to a dollar general so they can work and pay taxes but when tye says “move that bus” the bus moves and reveals their demolished home and their old neighborhood residents wielding pitchforks and torches, they aggressively escort the guest to the off-grid tiny house where Chris Hanson is waiting with a pair of brass knuckles and lube.

Travis Scott raises hell in Austin, TX.

I went to the Travis Scott concert in Austin and all I got was swallowed into a giant pit of fire where I plummeted through 7,000 miles of unimaginable torture and absolute human suffering. Once I arrived at the center of hell I was met by a demon named אָבֻדֹן ’āḇadōn; he informed me that my soul was taken and sold from me when I willfully bought the ticket and entered the venue, the demon said I shall serve as his pet forever from the date of my natural death until the end of eternity. That was most of the set. Honestly, I had a better time at the Bill Maher show.

Peter Dinklage and the 7 Dead Midgets

Spokesman from SAG announced this morning that the original cast set to play the seven dwarves in long awaited and fan dreaded reboot of Snow White and The Seven Dwarves have all been found shot and burned to death in the tiny home community that was built for the purpose of housing all disabled and protected class actors in the Los Angeles area. Dinklage, from Game of Thrones and Tiptoes fame came forward as the shooter within a few hours. He turned himself in at an LA County Jail after going live on Facebook to proclaim that the casting of Snow White and The Seven Dwarves was offensive and that “ I [Dinklage] am the big boss man of this theatre, and Hollywood shant hath room for more than one dwarf, I shall remain the higher man till anyone else-short best my hand!” Dinklage immediately posted bail and was seen leaving the courthouse alongside Jesse Jackson from the NAACP. Jackson held an impromptu press conference to announce that the filming of the reboot should continue with the seven dwarves being replaced in the story by all surviving members of the Wu-Tang clan. The rap group arrived in person to welcome Dinklage home and publicly signed the acting contract at the LA County Courthouse this morning, onlookers were confused and upset by the news.

CornPop: Joe Biden Raped Me!

Trouble on the erection trail for incumbent president Joseph Biden as his former close confidant and man by the legal name “Corn Pop” is hitting the tabloids this morning. Mr. Pop went on Tucker Carlson last night to confirm as an eyewitness to confirm that Joe’s earlier stories about their friendship were true. Indeed he and Biden were close friends, chasing underage tail at the local swimming pools and pulling pranks in the Vette, only a minor yet very important anecdote from their childhood affair was strategically left out of his memoirs, Corn Pop thinks the president and the public need to acknowledge this: As a teenager Corn Pop was raped by Joseph Biden. 10 witnesses have already come forward to provide their gruesome recount of the public raping that Biden was allegedly known for back home. When he wasn’t taking beatings and picking up after his drunk parents failing businesses, the Bidens all had their own way of terrorizing their community. Joe didn’t drink alcohol, however, he loved to rape men and women, boys and girls, pretty much anyone that was within reach at the time. “Man, he was so athletic back then. He was like a cheetah, Corn Pop, the gazelle.. I’m just glad it wasn’t me that day.” -Anonymous bystander

Guns(Opinion)

You know back in my day we used to walk to school through feet of compounding trauma and a general fear of random acts of terror in public. Violence was expected, we weren’t scared of no bullets whether they would come from some gay nerd or their deranged drug addled parent. A hail of gunfire never stopped us from learning how to play football and take orders, and you know what? I got to grow up in America, and in this god-blessed country our founding fathers gave our guns the right to bear arms. So if guns need to use our arms to blow off a little steam now and then well, I’d say that’s perfectly fair and completely legal. Quit your sissy liberal whining.

Questions

I get texts and emails all day from either political party and I have tried everything to make it stop. Junk mail filters are subverted using slightly different email addresses the same way phishers and hackers do it. I tried blocking or unsubscribing from all this shit manually in addition to an advanced auto filter so the problem is that it’s a targeted harassment campaign with the full funding and technological support of the United States government and I think they are infringing on my rights as an American citizen by forcing their federal documents onto my privately owned devices and illegally confiscating DISK SPACE and INTERNET BANDWIDTH . How do I make it stop? Do I have to declare a jihad? Should I move into the woods and start building a log cabin while I work on my magnum opus? I’m a political analyst, btw.
Editor: oof idk, have you tried voting?

Does “life-alert” work for asphyxiation situations? I’m asking for, in case I need to choke myself to the point of losing consciousness but without expiring forever, it’s actually a good thing. Any advice would be helpful.

Thank you in advance.

Surviving November: A Gooners Guide

Tell women that you partake in no nut November, because the mass production of these nuts often create unnatural regional droughts and destroys massive sections of arable land. The tedious processing and packaging of these giant loads of nut often justify and facilitate the use of slave labor both abroad and here in the United States. So no nuts in November, I just stick to water and hot chip. (Now you can participate in no nut November while jacking off the whole time. You might even get laid!)

You’re a total piece of shit you know that like a total waste of flesh, you know nobody likes you and everybody wishes you were dead. Why don’t you just make today the day you sad sack mother fucker? oh that’s right, you can’t even do that. What a pathetic existence. Hey stupid, you hear that? I bet everyone is talking about you, they are telling each other how much they hate you and how they wish you would just cease to exist, nobody likes you. Everyone hates you and thinks you’re a bad person and it’s because you are. They are right about you, everyone has been right about you the whole time. You’re stupid, and mean. You’ll never amount to anything. Maybe a statistic, if you’re lucky. Faggot. You stupid fucking idiot. Even if you do hate yourself you’ll never feel the appropriate amount of pain and loathing you deserve. If I had my way i’d rip your fuckinge eyes out through your ass and give you the worst cancers known to man since, that’s basically what you are. You are a cancer. A cancer upon the earth that will never be able to thrive while you exist, tainting its flesh. So why don’t you just get rid of our problem already. You already know how, I bet you think about it all day, pussy. Idiot. Retard. This newspaper is brought to you in part with special funding from the Asshole Party campaign and other conglomerates, international partners, and kingdoms. The B-Side

This is hate speech and slander, this is not a parody. (this is a parody)

Duels now legal in Texas: It's totally fricken sweet.

Gun sales at an all-time high this morning as word spreads of the newest executive order signed by crippled cuckold governor Greg Abbott which reverses the ban on interpersonal dueling, such practice that was generally understood to be savage by the late 1800s and probably too violent for a modern society.

Last week before finalizing the draft, lawmakers from lone star state argued that with the newly legalized casinos popping up all over the state, gun violence has gotten out of hand. The order cited various financially motivated mass shootings and simulations led by the NRA and Smith & Wesson which showed that the best way to combat gun violence would actually be the legalization of various forms of it; duels being the first experiment in a quoted “long list of ideas” that are currently classified until further notice.

Already in the early afternoon we’re witnessing the first hurdles that come with this new law. It appears as though the drafters did not account for the modernization of guns since the 1800s, and duelers have already been seen participating in massive teams only these angry Texans are using firearms ranging from 9mm pistols to AK47s, and for the first time in American history we are hearing reports of rocket propelled grenades being used by citizens against other citizens in one-on-one legally armed combat. Public officials in the area are urging citizens to stand down or stay indoors.

Jimmy Zancudos Oscar acceptance speech (transcript from prison)
When I was just a kid, movies were EVERYTHING to me.

A necessary escape and beloved pastime, I began craving the moving picture, whether a commercial laden rerun of an old film, or the midnight premiere of the hottest summer blockbuster. I always found ways to be watching a movie. When I learned I could sneak VHS tapes into my room to hide them past their due date from the rental store, I became obsessed with analyzing every shot of every scene in every motion picture I could get my hands on-no matter the rating. noises paired with the screams of my dueling mother and father would chill me to the bone on a nightly basis. This feeling of terror would enthrall my youthful spirit and the films I consumed would subconsciously fuel a rageful imagination that would comfort me through my teen years and beyond. I found solace in associating and identifying myself as the main protagonist and the antagonist of a very personal horror film that I couldn't wait to start over when I woke up every morning.

I began making films before I even had access to a camera - working my GI Joe action figures through prewritten or improvised action scenes, even using spare dolls as a film crew;

Don't be afraid of command line applications, you're more capable than you realize. If you have the option to opt out of data sharing anywhere, do it. The data mostly consumed by these features is being used to rake in millions of dollars that you will work for but never see. It's quite the opposite actually, companies will purposely degrade their websites or software's with the intention of keeping you on a page longer, or getting you to leave a review whether it's good or bad. Analytics scraped by companies on the internet can and will be used against you in a court of law and any private executives fighting against direct cooperation with federal law enforcement are subsequently sacked and replaced by an ex-congressman, or senator. Pirating music is stealing from a corporate label that is stealing from an artist. You should go see the artist live or find another avenue to support them, if they don't have any other income aside from the major trations of loccd out looney tunes. It was an attempt to “scrape the pipe” for more of this six-flags-ass style of expression. Unfortunately my searches came up empty. Alas the internet is a rapidly dissolving commercial marketplace devoid of substantial content, or anything helpful. Of course there's thousands of images depicting the looney tunes sucking and fucking each other in various ways. It seems that there is no online community making fine art that depicts the looney tunes coming together as an impoverished class to skirt unjust laws in attempt to lift each other out of systematic poverty by any means necessary. This was devastating. Just as I was about to give up my search and succumb to the 34th rule of media, a vintage acme lightbulb appeared over my head and shattered glass rained into my eyes. The glass caused real permanent damage as well as an immense pain and profuse bleeding. This is when lightning struck and a genius epiphany became clear; I live in the future, I can just ask that stupid dumb gay robot bitch to make the racist cartoons that I am desperately yearning to see. State endorsed pass-times (TV, war footage, blood sports, porn, ect) technically make me a better person, morally superior and even increase my credit score tremendously, but-streaming outlets then maybe you should seek out some more interesting artists. You don't have to pay for things in big stores, you can just leave with the items you want if it's under a certain amount. Ask yourself, as a serf, would you stop you? (varies by state) The wealthier people in this country are very unlikely to still feel in touch with any sense of danger, they are often not situationally aware. This can be used against them in situations where they would be stupid to fight back, like car-jackings and burglaries(varies by state); they usually have great insurance plans; so there's no need to feel bad. LEAKED Lynne Spears tell-all!

You know that crazy old lady on Instagram? What if I told you she was once the Queen of the United States of America, she had every man in this country wrapped around her finger until all the pressure became much too much and turned our diamond of a popstar into a totally hysterical broad. Until very recently she was under the loving care of her parents who were managing the millions of dollars she brought in through her art. After a recent leaked audio tape we became frighteningly aware that the “loving care“ she was supposedly receiving, was not so lovely after all. Here is a transcript from the tape. “That's it, I'm done. We can't take care of her forever Lynne, she's a grown ass woman and she has a good job. I know she's batshit crazy but I can't be responsible for all this money she's bringing in, and everyone think I'm holding her captive like some psychotic asshole! I don't care if you have to hire half of Hollywood to start a viral internet campaign to make it look like we're forced to end this conservatorship, if you don't do something I'm gonna hire that Federline fuck to take her off our hands, and I know you don't want her going back to that island again, do you? Bitch?” -Jamie Spears to Lynn Spears, in leaked recordings from late 2020

Am I A Gay?

Hey I made this newspaper, it's not a zine. It's a newspaper. I hope there is something in here that everyone can enjoy but if you have ever been offended by anything that was meant to be funny I would not recommend looking at it. If you aren't easily offended you still might not want to look at it. I would like to continue sharing short form writing and would love to incorporate art from other people, I have no illustration skills but I appreciate every genre of art. More importantly, I would love this to somehow become a vessel for certain progressive social movements, but in a format that is actually consumed and remembered rather than some divisive malarkey that gets flicked away like a booger. I have seen younger generations pouring out refreshing examples of new or reborn indie movements with real substance and worth. I think the morbid reason for my generations lack of comfortable expression is for the false hope instilled in us as kids. We were taught by id to chase currency, even if that meant making art solely with the intent to turn it into a business, those of us unable to detach our hearts from the shit we call art were destroyed and heartbroken when discovering that the real art industry only finds value in the value of owning whatever art is easiest to package and resell, exploit, abuse, scandalize, or prostitute. This hope of living a meaningful life in a passionate career was lost on our younger siblings while our parents tried to raise us through a failing economy and in schools that were abusing their kids. I think these generations are growing to be great artists because they just. don't. care. Most of the best art in history was born out of exteme oppression and tragic circumstances. So methinks the kids are not alright, man.

Anyway, I think I am good at designing digital/print advertisements and writing copy but, I have a hatred for capitalism that hinders my ability to make money with these skills. I built a website mostly from scratch a couple years ago that I have been too scared to share for fear of either criticism or acclaim. There's forums and social media functions with the original plan of being a donation based multi-media sharing platform.

I am also working other writing projects; I am currently writing a micro-budget stage play that's loosely based on Shakespeare's King series and I have the first draft of a pilot for a narrative driven sketch show but it's really fucked up and mean. I am going to attempt to write an epic poem about my dead cat that takes the reader on multiple journeys through space and time. I am also very good at cataloguing and logistics. In another life I would probably be a creepy librarian.

My main obstacle in art seems to be a fear of showing people me, and how I find the joy in misery.

I've seen my generation lose touch with themselves through randomly generated propaganda we've been eating through a screen since we were preteens and

I can't be much worse than that. I hope someday I can write something nice, that would make you all feel warm.

I fight the idea that art is dead, or that poetry is gay, even though I'm literally saying it.

-I didn't do this
